No Politics Please

We cannot print political material/views/criticisms

On occasion we receive requests to print letters, opinion pieces, etc., that express individuals' political views or criticisms regarding what the U.S. President, Congress, etc., is/is not doing right or wrong, who to vote for or not to vote for....

For example, a writer might present a diatribe about what a politician or government official said or did, and then say "Maybe we should remember this at election time." Or, "The Democrats/Republicans/Libertarians/Goose Down party is simply not acting in the best interests of the American public, which is something our members have to address by voting for [insert candidate's name here]."

We are prohibited by our charter from expressing individuals' or KWVA views on matters political, criticizing government leaders et al. Letters expressing such views are better suited for newspapers or other publications that entertain political arguments.

Nor can we support specific candidates in local, state, or federal elections. In fact, we cannot even support specific candidates in KWVA elections—especially if we want to keep our charter.

National Infantry Museum opens

The National Infantry Museum and Soldier Center at Patriot Park celebrated its grand opening this summer. It is located just outside the gates of Fort Benning, the Home of the Infantry, at 1775 Legacy Way, Columbus, GA 31903.

The museum is the first of its kind in the United States. The exhibits tell the heroic story of everyday infantrymen through an enviable collection of more than 30,000 artifacts. Infantry history is traced from before the Revolutionary War to action today in Afghanistan.

Admission to the National Infantry Museum and Soldier Center is free. However, the museum is privately funded and made possible through generous donations.
