MISSILE SHIELD TO S. KOREA

When the Pentagon announced it was planning to send the Lockheed Martin Terminal High Altitude Area Defense anti-missile system to Korea, it sounded as if the interceptors would be deployed within weeks. Now, almost six months later, the announcement came last night [July 7, 2016] (Friday Korea time) that an agreement had been reached with South Korea to upgrade its missile defenses.

"When the THAAD system is deployed to the Korean Peninsula, it will be focused solely on North Korean nuclear and missile threats and would not be directed towards any third party nations," said a Pentagon statement. "The THAAD deployment will contribute to a layered missile defense that will enhance the alliance's existing missile defense capabilities against North Korean missile threats."
