Dear American Soldiers

Hi! My name is Jung Yun Huang, and I'm a Korean student, now 15. 😊 Anyway, I wrote this letter to mainly say thank you. I'm not old enough to learn history in school, so I can't specifically tell what we are grateful for. But we do know that American Soldiers protected our homes, dreams and many citizens, and I feel really thankful for this. But as I grew up, I heard that wars can have a lot of after effects both mentally and physically, so I was very worried, sad, and a bit guilty. And I think American Soldiers should be very proud for having courage to come and fight for a country they have never heard of. As for me, since I could never have such kind of courage, I feel more aww. But most importantly, I hope that these days, American Soldiers are living in peace and comfort, since they deserve all of it, I can't actually imagine what it feels like to be in a battlefield, and I can't dare say that I understand. When I visited U.S I went to a National park, Korean War Veterans Memorial, and saw a sentence that "Freedom is not free", and there was total deaths written.

This was probably one of the few times that I was serious, and probably the first time I felt thankful.

To end this letter, I would like to remind you that all of Korea thanks you.

Sincerely, Huang Jung, Yun (황정윤)

THANK YOU

-P.S
I tried to find a poppy pin, but I couldn't find it, so I put a carnation pin instead. A carnation means respect and thanks. :)

Thank You
