

Dear Korean War Veterans,

Hello, how are you? My name is Ju Young Yun, 14 year old boy from South Korea. Yes, you're right. It's the Korea, the republic of Korea you've tried to save about 60 years ago. It's really my pleasure to write a thank-you letter to you, war veterans.

Nowadays, in Korea, students learn about your hard work and sacrifice, I and other Koreans really thank you for your doing in Korea. When there was a war in Korea, Our Korea was very weak and the U.S.S.R and China were helping North Korea. So you and your comrades had to be drafted to go to Korea and fight for us. During this war many soldiers who helped us died or became captives. You may have lost your comrades and I feel really sorry for you and also thank you.

Korea you had fought for was very weak and full of problems. But now Korea is 15th in GDP ranking, hosting G20 summit, 2nd in world public order ranking, 6th in world trade ranking, and 1st in world data communication technology ranking. There wouldn't have been this Korea if it was not for your sacrifice. Come visit Korea one day and you'll see developed Korea by the sacrifice you've done. Again, Thank you and bye! May you live a happy life!

- With all wishes,

Ju Young Yun.
