

Dear : KWVA

Time is...
Time is too Long for those who Grieve
Too Short for those who Rejoice.

First things first, hello, I am a Korean Middle School student named Tony Jeong. Now, I will like to give you a seldom 'thank you'. Thank you for saving my country, thank you for your sacrifice, thank you for your bravery. Thank you for withstanding the weight of war upon your shoulders which should have been ours. Without you, our country will either be in a rubble, or a Communist country.

We, Our country and I will always remember you. As heroes, Heroes who performed bravery and saved our country during the Korean War. I can not bear the pain with you, but I hope this can make your worries decrease. If you worry about yourselves getting forgotten, we will always remember the countries and the heroes who made our country present. At least, Our country will. I live in a happy family and have a pretty nice life. I guess this world was built by everyone of you, and thank you, again.

When I was in Washington D.C., I went to a Korean War memorial park with my mom. I was surprised at the number of people missing, dead, and captured and went thinking 'could I risk the probability of me getting lost or missing and perform bravery for an unknown country?' and I couldn't. Thank you again for your sacrifice and allowing our country to build a sustainable economy.

Sincerely, Tony -
