Korean War Veterans to Receive 60th Year Commemorative Gift of Gratitude from Korean Industries and Government

The Republic of Korea, together with the Department of Defense, thanks Korean War Veterans nationwide with gift of "Korea Reborn" book; Presentation ceremonies and/or collection points in every state via National Guards, state agencies, VFW and/or the Korean War Veterans Association

Salt Lake City, UT –Beginning on Veterans Day, the beautiful coffee-table quality book Korea Reborn: A Grateful Nation Honors War Veterans for 60 Years of Growth will be available to Korean War Veterans or family members as a gift of gratitude from the Korean government. This hardbound, full-color, 175-page commemorative is provided at no cost to honor these great Veterans and their families for their service and sacrifice.

Through historical narrative, stories, and stunning photography, this book describes the struggle for a foreign land's freedom and, ultimately, the fruits of that struggle—a democratic ally and world power. To see a PDF of the book, visit online at:

This gift was produced to cap the three-year Korean War 60th Commemorative period, with 2013 decreed by the United States Congress as the "Year of the Korean War Veteran."

Funding for the large-scale gift was provided by an alliance of South Korean public and private sectors, led by the Ministry of Patriot and Veterans Affairs and the Federation of Korean Industries.

Sixty years after the signing of the armistice agreement, Korea is now one of the most powerful economies in the world, having made the impressive rise from a donor recipient nation to a giving nation with less than 3.5% unemployment. The Federation of Korean Industries chose to become the funding source behind the largest gift of its kind to ever be presented to all veterans of a designated war period.

"I fully agree that this project is worthwhile to pursue for the sake of strengthening the U.S.-Korea relationship," expresses Mr. Jin Haeng Chung, President of the Hyundai Motor Group based in Seoul. "We hope this opportunity will help to strengthen the alliance and cooperation between our two countries."

Remember My Service (RMS) Productions—a Division of StoryRock, Inc. based in Salt Lake City, Utah—is the producer and publisher of the commemorative documentary (which will be released online Veterans Day 2013) and book entitled Korea Reborn: A Grateful Nation Honors War Veterans for 60 Years of Growth.
